

1865

1912 Dates J-BK

(1832-1892) Alexander Lyman HOLLEY American metallurgist. Born at Lakeville, Conn. In 1854, in partnership with COLBURN, he became editor of the "Railroad Advocate", and later edited other publications. Went to England (1863); purchased the Bessemer patents and started the Bessemer plant at Troy, N.Y. (1865), and erected steel works at Harrisburg

Pa. (1867). Became President of the Institute of Mining Engineers (1875) and lectured on iron and steel manufacture at Columbia University (1879-1882)